Dantewada farmers float firm to sell organic rice

Saturday, 04 June 2016 | Staff Reporter | Dantewada

SHARE

The farmers of insurgency-infested Dantewada district in Bastar division have floated their own firm to and sell organic rice.

Farmers Ratiram, Ludhru and Shambunath are not merely farmers but partners in a company 'Bhoomgaadhi' which makes and sells organic products in all parts of the country, officials informed.

About 1200 farmers engaged in organic farming in Dantewada district produce and market organic products. They formed a firm by the name of ' Bhoomgaadhi'.

Farmers open outlet to sell organic farm produce

Cherrupreet Kaur | TNN | Updated: Jun 2, 2016, 8:42 IST

Raipur: A group of 1,200 farmers, engaged in organic farming in Maoist-affected Dantewada district, inaugurated their outlet Bhoomgaadhi recently to sell organic pulses, horticulture produces and millets directly to consumers near Teknaar in tribal Bastar region.

Talking to TOI, progressive farmer Ludhram said, "Dantewada-based tribal farmers have spearheaded the organic cultivation movement, which is in full swing. We realize the balance of ecosystem and organic farming will revive soil fertility, is harmless to environment and takes care of health of all beings. More farmers are joining us and we have identified 35 popular local varieties of horticulture produces, which would be specially branded and packaged to sell widely.

The groups of farmers are also in process to register themselves under Farmers
